

Michael Niemann

Ashland, Oregon
(541) 201-8507
(541) 482-5940 fax
michael@michael-niemann.com
<http://michael-niemann.com>

Experience

Writing:

Writer and teacher for over twenty years with experience in academic and newspaper writing. Author of one book, three book chapters, eight academic articles, four newspaper articles and eleven book reviews. See the website above for specific references.

Grant writing:

Author or co-author of seven successful grant applications including a Luce Foundation grant.

Internet publishing:

Developer of and webmaster for several websites in both academic and non-academic settings. Familiar with HTML, CSS, JavaScript and Content Management Systems (e.g. Joomla).

Technical Writing:

Author of a complete software manual for an oil and gas exploration software package.

Editing:

Manuscript reviewer for several academic journals.

Employment History

Assistant/Associate Professor of International Studies, Trinity College, Hartford, CT — 1988-2008

Developed over twenty courses and successfully taught over two thousand students. Advised and mentored hundreds of students. Served as Director of the Tutorial College, the Trinity Center for Collaborative Teaching and Research and Acting Director of International Studies.

Technical Writer and Software Developer, Geographix, Denver, CO — 1984-1987

Conceived and wrote a complete software manual and developed software implementations for oil and gas exploration software.

Education

Ph.D., Graduate School of International Studies, University of Denver, 1991 — International Studies.

B.A., Rheinische Friedrich Willhelms Universität, Bonn, Germany, 1979 - Political Science.